AGRONOMY TIP SHEET

Here we are in the middle of winter, but now is a great time to start planning for spring. Is one of your goals for 2024 to increase production from your pasture and hayfields? If weeds were a problem for you in 2023, a good weed control program could help you get more out of your forages. Warm season annual grasses seem to be more of an issue in our area. Crabgrass, foxtail, and jointhead arthraxon are weeds that seem to be taking over certain areas of our pastures and hayfields during the summer months. These grasses germinate and begin growing in late March through early May. We usually notice them in June and July when they start to get ahead of our cool season grasses.

The best time to control these weeds is early spring before they germinate. A well timed application of Prowl herbicide does a great job in controlling these weeds. Our field staff can help you determine the best time and rate for application based on which weeds were in your fields last year. Prowl herbicide can be sprayed or applied with dry fertilizer. If you are interested, please contact one of our field staff so that we can evaluate your fields and get you on our schedule for spring.
