Welcome Elizabeth!

Elizabeth will be the retail management intern for CFC this summer. She grew up in Culpeper County and was heavily involved with FFA serving as an officer for both the local and state levels. She is currently a rising senior at Virginia Tech, majoring in Agricultural Business Management. At Virginia Tech she is the President of the Collegiate Young Farmers and a member of Block and Bridle club. We are looking forward to having Elizabeth this summer at CFC!

Agronomy Tip Sheet

As we head into summer, it is a good time to prepare for the weeds we will face in our pastures and hayfields. Cool season weeds such as chickweed and buttercups are fading away, but warm season weeds are starting to appear. Annuals such as pigweed and ragweed are off to a good start. Other problem weeds include perilla mint and horsenettle. If these weeds are causing major problems in your pastures or hayfields, it may be time to take steps to control the issue.

Mowing to prevent these weeds from going to seed and increasing their population is an important part of pasture management. If weeds are causing reduced pasture productivity it may be time for a herbicide application. The first step is to properly identify the weeds that are present. Once you know what weeds are present, you can choose the correct herbicide and properly time your application. Proper timing allows for the most effective use of herbicides.

Your CFC territory manager can help you determine the proper steps to help control weeds. We can help you identify problem weeds and find the most effective ways to promote your grasses. If a herbicide application is needed, we can determine the proper timing and product for effective results that will improve your fields.
